EXPLANATORY NOTE

This Explanatory Note was written as a reader's aid to Bill 142 and does not form part of the law. Bill 142 has been enacted as Chapter 24 of the Statutes of Ontario, 2017.

The Bill makes numerous amendments to the Construction Lien Act in response to the report titled “Striking the Balance: Expert Review of Ontario’s Construction Lien Act”, prepared for the Ministry of the Attorney General and the Ministry of Economic Development, Employment and Infrastructure and delivered on April 30, 2016. In addition, many housekeeping amendments are made to update the Act and to correct errors.

The Bill renames the Act the Construction Act (section 1 of the Bill). A number of other Acts are consequentially amended to reflect the change in the Act’s short title (sections 75 to 79, 81 and 82 of the Bill).

Section 2 of the Bill makes a number of different amendments to subsection 1 (1) of the Act, which set out definitions for the purposes of the Act. These include,

- (a) amending the existing definitions of “contractor” and “subcontractor” to take joint ventures into account;
- (b) adding a definition of “monetary supplementary benefit”;
- (c) re-enacting the definition of “municipality”; and
- (d) re-enacting the definition of “written notice of a lien” to provide for a written notice of a lien to be provided in a form prescribed by the regulations.

Subsection 2 (2) of the Bill repeals the definition of “construction trade newspaper”. References in the Act to publication in a construction trade newspaper are replaced with requirements to publish in the manner set out in the regulations.

The definition of “improvement” in subsection 1 (1) of the Act is amended by adding “capital” before “repair” in clause (a). A subsection 1 (1.1) is added to the Act to set out what is meant by “capital repair” as used in the definition of “improvement”.

The definition of “price” in subsection 1 (1) of the Act is re-enacted, so that direct costs incurred are included. A subsection 1 (1.2) is added to the Act to set out what is meant by “direct costs” as used in the definition of “price”.

Section 1.1 is added to the Act to set out how the Act and the regulations made under the Act apply in the context of an alternative financing and procurement arrangement respecting an improvement that is between the Crown, a municipality or a broader public sector organization on the one hand, and a special purpose entity on the other (section 3 of the Bill). A definition of “broader public sector organization” is added to subsection 1 (1) of the Act.

Section 2 of the Act is amended to change the thresholds at which a contract is considered to be substantially performed for the purposes of the Act, as well as for when it is deemed to be completed. Subsection (4) is added to section 2 to set out the circumstances in which multiple improvements under a single contract should be treated, for the purposes of the section, as if they were under separate contracts.

Section 6 of the Act is amended by adding a subsection (2) setting out examples of minor irregularities that do not automatically invalidate a certificate, declaration or claim for lien.

A new Part I.1 (Prompt Payment) is added to the Act. It sets out timelines for the payment of amounts payable under contracts to contractors (payable by owners), and under subcontracts to subcontractors (whether payable by contractors or by other subcontractors). A person is required to make payments in accordance with the timelines, unless he or she provides a notice of non-payment in accordance with the requirements of the Part and regulations made under it. Amounts not paid in accordance with the timelines accrue interest at a specified rate. A requirement to make payments in accordance with the Part is, however, subject to the requirements of Part IV to retain holdback amounts.

A new section 8.1 is added to the Act, imposing duties on contractors and subcontractors who are trustees of trust funds under section 8 of the Act. The duties require the trust funds to be deposited in a specified manner and for records to be kept that include specified details.

Section 12 of the Act is amended so that set-off by a trustee of an amount from trust funds may only be in respect of debts, claims or damages that are related to the applicable improvement, except in the event of a contractor or subcontractor’s insolvency. A similar amendment is made to subsection 17 (3) of the Act.

A new Part II.1 (Construction Dispute Interim Adjudication) is added to the Act. The Part establishes a right of parties to a contract or subcontract to require the adjudication of certain matters under the Part. Matters that may be adjudicated are set out under subsections 13.5 (1) and (2) of the Act. The Part contains various requirements respecting adjudications. A contract or subcontract may provide for the procedures that are to apply to an adjudication between the parties, as long as those procedures comply with the requirements of the Part. If they do not, or if a contract or subcontract does not address adjudication procedures, the procedures set out in the Part and in the regulations apply to the adjudication (section 13.6 of the Act).

An adjudication is conducted by an adjudicator, who is a person qualified to conduct such adjudications by the Authorized Nominating Authority designated under the Part for the purpose. In addition to qualifying persons as adjudicators, the Authority is required to provide for the training of persons as adjudicators, to maintain a public registry of adjudicators and, in the event that parties to an adjudication cannot agree on an adjudicator to conduct their adjudication, to appoint an adjudicator to do so. The Authority is authorized to charge fees for its services, subject to the regulations (sections 13.2 and 13.3 of the Act).

A determination on an adjudication under Part II.1 is binding on the parties, subject to the underlying matter being determined by a court, by an arbitrator under the Arbitration Act, 1991 or by the parties in a written agreement (section 13.15 of the Act). The determination of an adjudicator may be set aside on judicial review in certain circumstances, but an application for judicial review requires leave of the Divisional Court (section 13.18 of the Act). The determination may also be enforced as if it were a court decision, by filing a copy of it with the Superior Court of Justice (section 13.20 of the Act). Section 13.19 of the Act sets out timelines for the payment of amounts owing under a determination. The section also specifies the implications of not paying within the timelines: the accrual of interest on amounts owing and the permissibility of a suspension of work on the improvement, subject to payment. A requirement to make payments in accordance with an adjudicator's determination is, however, subject to the requirements of Part IV to retain holdback amounts.

Section 16 of the Act is re-enacted. Currently, a lien does not attach to the interest of the Crown in a premises of which it is the owner, nor to the interest of a municipality in a premises that is a public street or highway owned by the municipality. The re-enactment of section 16 provides that a lien does not attach to the interest of a municipality in any premises that it owns. Complementary amendments are made to subsection 17 (4) and to section 34 of the Act.

Subsection 19 (1) of the Act is re-enacted to provide that if the interest of the owner to which a lien attaches is leasehold, and if payment for all or part of the improvement is accounted for under the terms of the lease or any renewal of it, or under any agreement to which the landlord is a party that is connected to the lease, the landlord's interest is also subject to the lien, to the extent of 10 per cent of the amount of such payment. A subsection 19 (5) is added to the Act to confirm that a landlord may still be considered an owner of a premises for the purposes of the Act if he or she meets the criteria set out in the definition of "owner" in subsection 1 (1) of the Act. Complementary amendments are made to section 39 of the Act, which sets out information that must be provided on request in specified circumstances, in order to expressly address information that must be provided by a landlord to whom subsection 19 (1) applies.

A new subsection 22 (4) is added to the Act to specify the various forms in which a holdback may be held under the Act. Sections 26 and 27 are amended so that the payment of the basic holdback (under section 26) and of the holdback for finishing work (under section 27) is requisite; the current wording of the sections states that a payer may, without jeopardy, make payment of the holdbacks. Sections 26.1 and 26.2 are added to the Act, to provide for the payment of basic holdbacks on an annual and on a phased basis, respectively. A new section 27.1 of the Act provides that an owner may refuse to pay some or all of a holdback amount if he or she publishes, within a specified time, notice of non-payment in accordance with the regulations, and notifies the contractor of the publication. Contractors and subcontractors who are not paid holdback amounts may refuse to pay related holdback amounts to other subcontractors, provided that the matter is referred to adjudication under Part II.1 of the Act.

Amendments are made to section 31 of the Act in order to extend the timelines for the expiry of liens. The section is also amended to make express reference to the termination of a contract as a factor in whether or not a lien is expired. A new subsection 31 (2.1) is added to specifically address the expiry of a lien of the trustee of a workers' trust fund.

Subsection 32 (2) of the Act is amended to provide for changes in the information that must be included in certificates or declarations of substantial performance, and subsection 34 (5) of the Act is amended to provide for changes in the information that must be included in a claim for lien. Additional amendments are made to section 34, including,

- (a) adding a requirement that a person who preserves a lien that relates to an improvement to the common elements of a condominium must give notice of the lien's preservation to specified persons (subsection 29 (10) of the Bill); and
- (b) providing for the extension of the times for a lien's expiry if the matter that is the subject of the lien is also the subject of an adjudication under the new Part II.1 of the Act, but only for the purposes of section 34 (subsection 29 (11) of the Bill).

Section 35 of the Act is re-enacted to provide for the liability of a person who preserves a claim for lien or gives written notice of a lien that results in another person suffering damages as a result, if the person who preserved the lien or gave notice knew or ought to have known that the amount of the lien was wilfully exaggerated; the current section refers to an amount which the person knew or ought to have known is grossly in excess of the amount owed. A subsection (2) is added to section 35 to give the court authority to, on motion, reduce a lien amount by any exaggerated portion, as long as it finds that the person who preserved the lien or gave notice acted in good faith.

Subsection 36 (2) of the Act is amended to extend the timeline for the perfection of a preserved lien.

In addition to being amended to address landlords under subsection 19 (1) of the Act, section 39 of the Act is amended to specify a "state of accounts" for the purposes of the section (subsections 32 (2), (4), (7) and (9) of the Bill). Paragraph 1 of subsection 39 (1) of the Act is amended to add a requirement that an owner or contractor must provide information as to whether the contract provides that it is based on the completion of specified phases or milestones. A new subsection (4.2) is added to the section respecting information to be provided by a mortgagee.

Section 41 of the Act is amended to provide for the registration of a discharge of lien, in the form prescribed by the regulations, in order to discharge a preserved or perfected lien. A complementary amendment is made to section 42 of the Act.

Various amendments are made to section 44 of the Act, which deals with the vacating of a lien by payment into court:

1. Clause 44 (1) (d) is amended to raise the threshold amount required to be provided as security for costs.
2. Subsection (3.1) is added to address motions for vacating a written notice of lien.
3. Subsection (5.1) is added to provide that a letter of credit that meets the specified requirements is acceptable as security under the section.

In addition, subsections 44 (2.1) and (2.2) are added to address the application of clause (1) (a) and subsection (2), which provide for motions to vacate a lien where the lien attaches to a premises, in the condominium context. Related amendments are made to the Condominium Act, 1998, by the re-enactment of sections 13 and 14 of that Act (section 74 of the Bill).

Section 47 (1) of the Act is re-enacted to provide expressly that the court may discharge a lien on the basis that the claim for lien is frivolous, vexatious or an abuse of process.

Part VIII of the Act is amended by the repeal of most of its provisions dealing with procedures on a lien claim action, and by instead providing that the procedures that govern such an action are any set out in the Act and those set out in regulations prescribed for the purposes of the Part. The Courts of Justice Act and the rules of court apply to the extent that they do not conflict with the Act and the prescribed procedures. Section 58 of the Act, providing for references of actions to specified persons, is amended to provide for the referral of actions that fall within the monetary jurisdiction of the Small Claims Court to deputy judges of that Court or to the Small Claims Court Administration Judge.

Subsection 71 (3) of the Act currently provides that no appeal lies from a judgment or order on a motion to oppose confirmation of a report from a reference under section 58 if the amount is $1,000 or less, or from an interlocutory order. Subsection 71 (3) is re-enacted as subsections 71 (3) and (4), which raise the appeal threshold to $10,000, as well as provide for the appeal of an interlocutory order with leave of the Divisional Court.

A new Part XI.1 (Surety Bonds) is added to the Act. Section 85.1 of the Act creates requirements for a contractor who enters into a contract with an owner that is the Crown, a municipality or a broader public sector organization (a “public contract”) to furnish the owner with a labour and material payment bond, and with a performance bond, if the contract price is above the amount set out in the regulations. Any such bonds must meet the specified requirements. Section 69 of the Act, establishing a right of action on default of a labour and material payment bond, is repealed and re-enacted as a new section 85.2. The new section also establishes a right of action on default of a performance bond. A complementary amendment is made to the new Part II.1 (Construction Dispute Interim Adjudication) to provide that the regulations may extend the application of that Part, with such alterations as the regulations may specify, to disputes respecting the surety bonds specified by the regulations.

Section 87 of the Act is amended by adding a new subsection (1.1) that specifies that a written notice of lien must be served in a manner permitted under the rules of court for service of an originating process. The regulations made under the Act may provide that, if the owner of a premises is a municipality, a copy of a claim for lien shall be given to the clerk of the municipality under subsection 34 (3.1) electronically.

A new section 87.1 is added to the Act to address the interaction between the Act and the Financial Administration Act, where the Crown or specified public entities are required to pay interest under the Act.

Section 87.3 is added to the Act to set out transitional rules respecting the application of the amendments made by the Bill.

Section 88 of the Act, setting out regulation-making authority, is re-enacted. New regulation-making authorities respecting the various amendments to the Act are added. These include an authority to exclude from the application of Parts I.1 and II.1 such classes of contracts and subcontracts for improvements to land used in connection with a facility referred to in the definition of “nuclear facility” in the Nuclear Safety and Control Act (Canada) as are specified by the regulations. As well, a regulation-making authority respecting transitional matters arising from the implementation of the Bill is added.

In addition to the previously-mentioned substantive amendments and their related and complementary amendments, the Bill makes various non-substantive amendments and corrections. These include,

- (a) fixing incorrect usage of the defined term “services or materials”; for example in the definition of “payer”, in subsection 1 (1) of the Act, where “materials or services” is used instead (subsection 2 (9) of the Bill);
- (b) adding definitions for “prescribed” and “regulations” in subsection 1 (1) of the Act (subsections 2 (11) and (13) of the Bill);
- (c) replacing the reference in clause 62 (6) (b) of the Act to the repealed Arbitrations Act with the replacement Arbitration Act, 1991 (subsection 45 (2) of the Bill);
- (d) amending subsection 68 (4) of the Act to remove a redundant reference to a charge (subsection 47 (2) of the Bill); and

(e) repealing spent transitional provisions (sections 5, 18 and 83 to 85 of the Bill).

In addition, numerous amendments are made throughout the Bill to correct errors that are specific to the French version of the Act. These include amendments to the French translations of “claim for lien” (from “avis de privilège” to “revendication de privilège”) and “premises” (from “local” to “lieux”).

The commencement section of the Bill (section 86) provides that, for the most part, the housekeeping and non-substantive amendments come into force on the day the Bill receives Royal Assent, and the substantive amendments come into force on proclamation of the Lieutenant Governor.

1. The contractor's name and address.
2. The date of the proper invoice and the period during which the services or materials were supplied.
3. Information identifying the authority, whether in the contract or otherwise, under which the services or materials were supplied.
4. A description, including quantity where appropriate, of the services or materials that were supplied.

6. The name, title, telephone number and mailing address of the person to whom payment is to be sent.

6.2 A requirement to pay an amount in accordance with this Part is subject to any requirement to retain a holdback in accordance with Part IV.

Same

(3) For greater certainty, subsection (2) has no application to a provision in a contract that provides for the certification of a payment certifier or the owner's approval after a proper invoice is given.

(4) Subsection (2) does not apply to a provision in a contract that provides for the testing and commissioning of the improvement or of services or materials supplied under the contract.

Revisions

(5) A proper invoice may be revised by the contractor after the contractor has given it to the owner, if,
